

Study Breaks Internship Programs

Study Breaks is a print and online magazine written and photographed exclusively by college students. Our Mission is to empower the college body through content created by students for students.

For 4 months during the summer, spring and fall semester, Study Breaks offers three Internships for college students nationwide: Writing Internship, Editing Internship, and Journalism Internship. These programs empower aspiring writers and editors through hands on experience, learning opportunities, and feedback. We are looking for dedicated students with inquisitive and creative minds, that are passionate about the written word.

STAFF WRITING INTERNSHIP

Join the Best Student Writers in the Country!

Interns will work with the editorial department to pitch and submit one article a week, including a byline. These articles will be used on the website, and might be included in the print version of the magazine.

The program is designed to improve student writing. Interns receive feedback and coaching from the editing team allowing them to improve their creative abilities, as well as familiarize themselves with the working of the digital publishing industry.

This internship will give you the opportunity to network with other student writers, editors, and photographers across the country. Your name will be included in the masthead, and your profile will be featured on the website.

Requirements

No experience is necessary, the only requirements are:

- Current college student with an .edu email address
- Passion for writing and creativity
- Able to meet the weekly writing deadline
- Fill out the application form online and include two non-fiction writing samples of any length

Specifics

- This is an unpaid internship. College credit is provided upon request.
- Each internship term lasts 4 months.
- Writers are required to write one article of 1000 words per week.
- The internship is remote, so you can work from wherever you are.

EDITING INTERNSHIP

Join a Dedicated Student Editing Team!

Student editors will edit, fact-check, and upload articles to the website; as well as provide feedback to the intern student writers.

Interns will practice and improve fundamental editing skills such as correcting typos, fixing stylistic errors, and punctuating phrases appropriately. They will also ensure the content is properly formatted and follows our writing guidelines. Interns will also be required to create titles, descriptions, and captions.

This program is designed to increase your aptitude for editing by providing practice and feedback. Every week, you will have individual sessions where the editing mentor at Study Breaks will review your work. This will help improve your own writing and analytical capacities. You will also learn WordPress basics; a popular Content Management System (CMS) that is used by many modern online publications to publish content.

This internship will give you the opportunity to network with dozens of student writers from across the country, as well as your editing mentor and Study Breaks staff. Your name will be included in the masthead and your profile will be featured on the website.
