

THE STUDY BREAKS REMOTE ILLUSTRATION INTERNSHIP

Study Breaks is a print magazine and website written, illustrated and photographed exclusively by college students, and we're looking for student graphic design/illustration interns for the summer 2018 semester.

WHAT YOU'LL DO

Every week, interns will work with our art department to create three (3) illustrations, each of which will be used on multiple social media platforms and on our website.

Once a month, interns will also be responsible for creating designs for the print magazine.

WHAT YOU'LL RECEIVE

Design interns will receive feedback from the Study Breaks art director, which will focus on the technicality of their craft. They will also become familiar with InDesign, Photoshop, Slack, Zoom and basic Wordpress.

In addition, design interns will accrue dozens of bylines, illustrate a number of different subjects and employ a variety of different styles. Interns will be published in print, online and on social, and will be exposed to a variety of other student writers, photographers and artists from across the country.

THE SPECIFICS

- The summer 2018 program runs from May 28, 2018, to Sept. 28, 2018, and applications close May 14, 2018.
- Expect to work between 10-12 hours/week.
- Interns will create 3 designs a week, plus contribute to the print magazine monthly.
- To apply, simply send in two examples of your work.
- The internship is remote, so you can work from anywhere.

The only requirements are that you are a current college student, a talented illustrator and a creative, punctual human being. There is no experience necessary.
