

THE STUDY BREAKS REMOTE WRITING INTERNSHIP

Study Breaks is website written exclusively by college students, and we're looking for student writers for the spring 2023 semester.

WHAT YOU'LL DO

Every week, interns will submit one article of 1,000 words and three article pitches for the next week to the editorial team. What you write about is entirely up to you, though creative, intelligent ideas are the expectation.

In addition, interns will belong to a writing group with several other students, all of whom will meet weekly via videoconference to workshop one member of the group's piece.

WHAT YOU'LL RECEIVE

Writers receive feedback from both their writing group and the editing team, and the critique will focus on the technicality of their craft in order to improve their skill as writers.

In addition, writers will accrue dozens of bylines, network with students across the country, familiarize themselves with the technology and methodology of the digital publishing industry, and most importantly, get to write about what they want.

THE SPECIFICS

- The spring 2023 program runs from Jan. 30, 2023, to May 26, 2023. Applications close Jan. 14, 2023.
- Expect to work between 10-12 hours/week.
- To apply, simply send in 2 non-fiction sample pieces.
- The internship is remote, so you can work from anywhere.
- The only requirements are that you are a current college student, a talented writer and a creative, punctual human being. There is no experience necessary.